CONTENT

Rome, second half of the 16th Century. Leonardo da Vinci and Michelangelo Buonarroti, join together the accomplishment and the custody of the greatest discovery that mankind has ever experienced.

The secret, so jealously protected in a shining beautiful Rome, involved in its thousand intrigues, is somehow put into the hands of Angel Valais, a brilliant surgeon, who will find himself implicated in an affair he does not want to get rid.

Through countless turns of events, that involve the reader from the first page until the end, he will be able to resolve the enigma that puts at risk the integrity of the Catholic Church and Rome itself.

AUTHORS

Giampaolo Guida is a professional internist doctor and homeopath, with more than 30 years old of experience and long studies on medical genetics. This novel, together with a collection of poems that will be published soon, is the result of his parallel interests in music, literature and Renaissance sacred art. He is Knight of the Italian Republic.
